What Price Prom?

Many Students Foregoing Dance

Many high school students are foregoing the annual junior-senior prom because of the expensive, accepted ritual that the dance be followed by visiting fashionable night clubs.

According to Mrs. Howard Kagle of Midlothian, who is legislation and scholarship chairman of the Bremen high school parent-teacher association, so many students at Bremen will not attend the prom this year that the affair is in danger of falling apart.

In a newsletter to parents, she explained the situation is this: "If a boy feels that he cannot meet the financial demands to do 'what everyone else does', then he will not participate at all. As no girl attends the dance without a date, the number of boys who will not attend can be multiplied by two, the letter states.

"Why should a boy be coerced into a situation in which he is inexperienced or reluctant, and why should he feel obligated to forsake the pleasure of a school event or be faced with a bill ranging from fifty to a hundred," the letter asks.

Mrs. Kagle states the school cannot solve the problem, which is nationwide, and one for which parents in other localities are trying to find a solution. She asks that parents of Bremen students discuss it with each other and with their own teenagers. The PTA executive board is seeking suggestions, so that some organized manner of discussion and consideration can be made.

One high school senior announced to his parents, who were willing to aid financially so that he might do as the others were doing, that he would not attend the prom because he felt the festivities to follow were not worth the cost. Cynically, declared: "It is a scheme thought up by the girls to make suckers out of the boys."

While not all boys of course, are so vehement in their opposition to the now prevalent practice of expensive night club entertainment following the dance at the school, it is disappointing to all who have taken the stand of boycotting the affair entirely, to miss what has always been a much anticipated climax to their high school days.

It is even more disappointing and embarrassing to the girls who must wait to be asked by a boy.

Parents also are disappointed as they recall the excitement and pleasure of their own junior-senior prom which their youngsters will miss.

Parents of youngsters who will attend the prom and the entertainment to follow will worry about them in cars on city streets and highways in a high emotional and excited state.

The problem has been solved in some schools thru the cooperation of parents, by providing organized trips to follow the dance.

Last year the students of Carl Sandburg High School in Orland Park took a trip to Arlington Heights. It was so successful that a Geneva Jaunt is planned after the prom this year.

The pupils will board buses

at 2 a.m. following the dance. At Des Plaines they will board a Chicago Northwestern train for the George Williams Y.M.C.A. College camp at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Any couple, of which one member is a junior or senior will be eligible to make the trip, but no stags or dateless students may go. Another condition is that they must have attended the prom.

The train will provide baggage cars for dancing to a known band; also several lounge cars will be available. Fathers making the trip will serve refreshments on the train. Arrival at the camp will be at 6 a.m.

After breakfast, the program calls for boating, hiking, golf, tennis, badminton, volleyball, and if the temperature is right, swimming.

Also planned is a sight-seeing boat trip around the lake and three tours of the University of Chicago's Yerkes observatory, with its world famous 40-inch telescope.

Lunch at noon will be western style and the group will train for home at 1:30 p.m. The price of the jaunt, which includes bus and train fare, also food, is $12 a person. These may even be reduced if enough students make the trip.

The program is possible because many parents are serving on committees to make it a success.

Other schools may wish to follow the example of Carl Sandburg. Students in other area schools who know of this program have expressed the wish that Bremen students might also enjoy such a planned activity.

Discuss Frankfort Sewer

Mokena School Board to Discuss Bond Issue

All residents of Mokena grade school district 159 are invited to a public meeting next Monday evening, April 6 at 8 o'clock at the Carpenter Street school to discuss plans for the proposed addition to the Willow Crest school. The board of education has arranged for the meeting in order to acquaint the public with the plans and to answer any questions that may come up.

Approval of the building program will be sought in a referendum on an $84,000 bond issue at the school election to be held Saturday, April 11. The polling place will be the Mokena school at Carpenter and Division streets. The polls will be open from 12 noon to 7 o'clock. The proposed building is a six room capacity addition to Willow Crest school in which four of the new rooms will be equipped for immediate use and the other two combined into a multipurpose room until needed as class rooms.

A commitment to purchase the bonds, if approved by the voters, has been received by the board from Benjamin Lewis and Company, Chicago bond house. The board had received bids from five bond firms on a competitive basis. The low bid was four and one-eighth percent interest, with the bonds to run 15 years.

Based on a tentative assessed valuation of the district of $6,159,000, the new bonds will result in an increase in building bond taxes of only 9c to 10c per $100 of assessed valuation. The board estimates that a home owner whose property for tax purposes is assessed at $6,000 will pay additional building bond taxes of $6 or less per year toward the cost of the new building.

Saturday Night Is Fun Night at Orland School

The annual Family Fun Night, sponsored by the Orland Park Parent Teacher association will be held Saturday, April 4, starting at 6 p.m. in the school.

The highlights of the affair will be a basketball game between fathers and sons. Already in the lineup are the following fathers who have been sneaking in some practice: Charles McKinley, chairman; Harry Burson, timer; Kirk Wheeler, coach; Roy Benson, Bob McDow, Robert Kennedy, Richard Yang, Otto Kettler, Robert Nelson, Bill Nelson, Jack Waterman, Bob Smith and Jim Whiteford. Any others interested are invited to join them.

Other events to be held are a bake sale, fortune telling, movie cartoons, white elephant sale, games, clowns and refreshments.

Tickets may be obtained (Continued on page 2)

Mokena CD Unit To Participate in Nationwide Test

The Mokena civil defense unit met at the village hall Tuesday night to prepare for the nationwide practice alert to be held April 17, at 10:30 a.m.

Anthony A. Dina, director of the Mokena CD unit, explained the national alert program.

Two and a half hours of warning will precede the simulated attacks in Illinois.

Warning procedures and equipment will be tested, including sirens and other signal devices.

The public will be asked to cooperate and participate in survival techniques, particularly in schools.

Dina, in common with other accredited CD directors, will be supplied with sealed instructions regarding the problem for this area and his unit will act accordingly.

Different regions are given different problems.

Citizens Group Would Have Flat Charge on Treatment of Sewage

Plans for the proposed Frankfort sewer system were discussed in detail Monday night before a meeting of representative citizens in the village hall. Lynn Kohlhaugen, chairman of the drainage committee of the village board, presided.

The group will meet again the night of April 13, at which time Robert Hamilton, the engineer in charge, will present some revised figures on the proposed rates.

Indications were that under the new schedule the minimum charge for sewer service will be set at $6 a month. The water rate, the minimum charge for which is $10 a year, will be increased a small amount to take care of operating expenses and maintenance. The amount of the increase will be announced when Hamilton has revised the figures.

The sewer charge will be placed on the water bill and bills will be collected every two months.

Village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark explained that the sewer service charge must be tied in with the water bill in order to sell the revenue bonds that will be used to finance the major portion of the program.

Bond holders, it was pointed out, are better protected when sewer service charges are tied in with the water bill. A municipality can shut off the water when the bill is not paid but it would be difficult to block off a sewer.

The engineer had explained earlier that the only practical method of financing the project was thru general obligation bonds, which are paid off by levying a tax on all personal and real property, and thru revenue bonds, which are retired thru earning of the water and sewer system. Special assessment bonds, Hamilton said, are exceedingly difficult to sell. Bond houses don't want them and since they are considered a poor risk the interest rate is quite high.

Resident of New Lenox for 57 Years, Feted on 90th Birthday

In the home where she has lived for the past 56 years at 204 N. Cedar st., New Lenox, Mrs. Octavia Pugh was the guest of honor at a family dinner to mark her 90th birthday on Sunday, March 22.

With her family of two daughters and a son, grandchildren and great grandchildren around her Mrs. Pugh opened cards and gifts from her many friends, some of whom dropped in during the afternoon and evening to offer congratulations.

The home was fragrant with flowers which Mrs. Pugh loves, and she wore a corsage of pink carnations presented to her by her granddaughter, Miss Mary Lee Collatz.

Her family who sat down to dinner at the long table, centered with a decorated birthday cake, were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Engel of Joliet, Mr. and Mrs. William Collatz of New Lenox; her son Harold Pugh, grandchildren Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barrowman of Joliet, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Egly, Miss Collatz and her great grandchildren.

The nonagenarian was born March 23, 1869 in Floyd, Va., one of a family of ten children of William and Martha Martin. She came to New Lenox with her husband, Albert L. Pugh and son Harold, then five years old, on Feb. 27, 1902. The couple was married in Virginia on March 12, 1894. Her husband died Feb. 7, 1925.

They came to New Lenox because her husband's brother was living here. At first Mr. Pugh worked on the farm of John Francis, a former sheriff of Will County.

The Pughs moved into the present 10 room family home in 1933, where Mrs. Pugh has operated a tourist home and boarding house, and still has some boarders at the present time who have been with her for about 15 years.

Despite her years, Mrs. Pugh is still very active, cooking and baking for boarders. Her hobby is working in the yard of her home on flower beds and a strawberry patch.

Thru the years she has had gangs of railroad men and telephone repair men stay at her home. When route 30 was being constructed there were as many as 12 of the construction workers who boarded at the Pugh home.

Her husband left the farm to work in H. N. Dickenson's general store.

Dates and incidents of the past are marked indelibly in her memory as without hesitation she relates how while working in the store, her husband drove a large wagon, drawn by two horses, in which he hauled milk from the area farmers to Bowman Dairy which was located in Mokena. At the time of his death, he had worked for the E&E railroad as a night watchman.

Frankfort Legion Sponsoring Drum And Bugle Corps

Youth living in the area between the ages of 12 and 18, who would like to play with a drum and bugle corps, now have an opportunity. Such a group is being organized in Frankfort.

Dale Johnson of Frankfort Township is the organizer. The American Legion is sponsoring it and have donated $450 to purchase instruments.

Perry Friedman, director of the Mokena and Frankfort grade school bands has offered his service to direct the band.

A meeting will be held at the Frankfort school gymnasium on Friday evening, April 3, to which all interested youth and their parents are invited.

Town Voters In Will County Ballot April 7

Will County townships will hold elections next Tuesday, April 7, but there will be none in Cook.

In New Lenox township a supervisor, a highway commissioner and two library trustees are to be elected. In Frankfort township the only office at stake is that of highway commissioner.

John Francis, supervisor of New Lenox township who is up for reelection next week, has opposition this time in the person of Albert Bettenhausen.

Mr. Francis resides in the village of New Lenox and has been a resident of the township all his life. He is just completing his first full four year term on the county board. He had served for a year and a half prior to his election thru appointment to succeed Fred Francis, his cousin, upon the latter's death.

Mr. Francis has been active on the board of supervisors and has also given particular attention to matters concerning his township. His backers point out that he has been pushing the improvement of Francis road and Maple road at Marley, together with other projects. Altho Mr. Francis lives in the village of New Lenox he also operates a farm. (Continued on Page 2)

Advertisers Get Speedy Results In Semmler Press

Classified ads in the Semmler newspapers: Tinley Park Times, Orland Park Herald, New Lenox produce excellent results. Two recent examples of how these papers with over 5,000 circulation bring prompt response from readers are sales of household goods and real estate.

Two weeks ago John Purnis, 16733 S. Sayre ave., Tinley Park, sold a east iron enameled kitchen cabinet sink the same day the paper came out. C. W. Batson, 409 N. Cedar rd., New Lenox, reported that two days after the paper was published, he sold the two homes and acreage he advertised. For a $1.50 and $2 investment, these men had profitable returns.

Cut Gas Bills

Utility Passes Refund on to Users

Residential gas bills for Northern Illinois Gas company customers will be reduced an average of about 2 1/2 per cent during the next 12 months, according to Marvin Chandler, the utility's president.

The reduction will average from 10 cents a month for customers with ranges and automatic water heaters to 40 cents monthly for those heating their homes with gas. Commercial and industrial gas users will get proportionate reductions.

This results from an approximate $3 million refund which Northern Illinois Gas received last week from one of its suppliers, Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America.

Rates charged NI-Gas for gas it buys from pipeline companies are subject to federal power commission approval. The $3 million is a portion of the refund received by Natural Gas Pipeline from Colorado Interstate Gas company from whom it purchases large quantities of gas. Colorado Interstate's charges were reduced upon completion of the FPC's review of its rates.

Northern Illinois Gas company's rates provide a method for returning to customers refunds received from pipeline companies resulting from reduction in costs of gas purchased. Chandler explained that starting within the next few days the refund will be returned to customers on their bills during the next twelve months thru this rate provision.

Nancy Wiley, Wilma Maue, Ken Wilz and Tom Misiag. Lou Meredith and Roy Wansik. Tony Yokley, Lauren Lilly, Bob DeVoursney, Bob Kennedy, LeRoy Neitzel and Don Kirsch were also awarded the blue ribbon.

Completing the list of first place winners were Ken Hammond, Georgia Lundin and Barbara Musil, Marilyn Linderoth, Hank Polson, Dee Lacki and Diane Robb.

Other project contests that will be entered by Sandburg students include the conference Science fair to be held at Sandburg May 12. Preceding the conference gathering, the district and state meets will attract several Sandburg entrants.

Sandburg Science Fair

23 Exhibitors Win Blue Ribbons

Twenty three first place ribbons were given to exhibitors in the fourth annual Sandburg Science Fair. A distinguished group of judges, including outstanding men of the industrial and research fields, selected the winning exhibits.

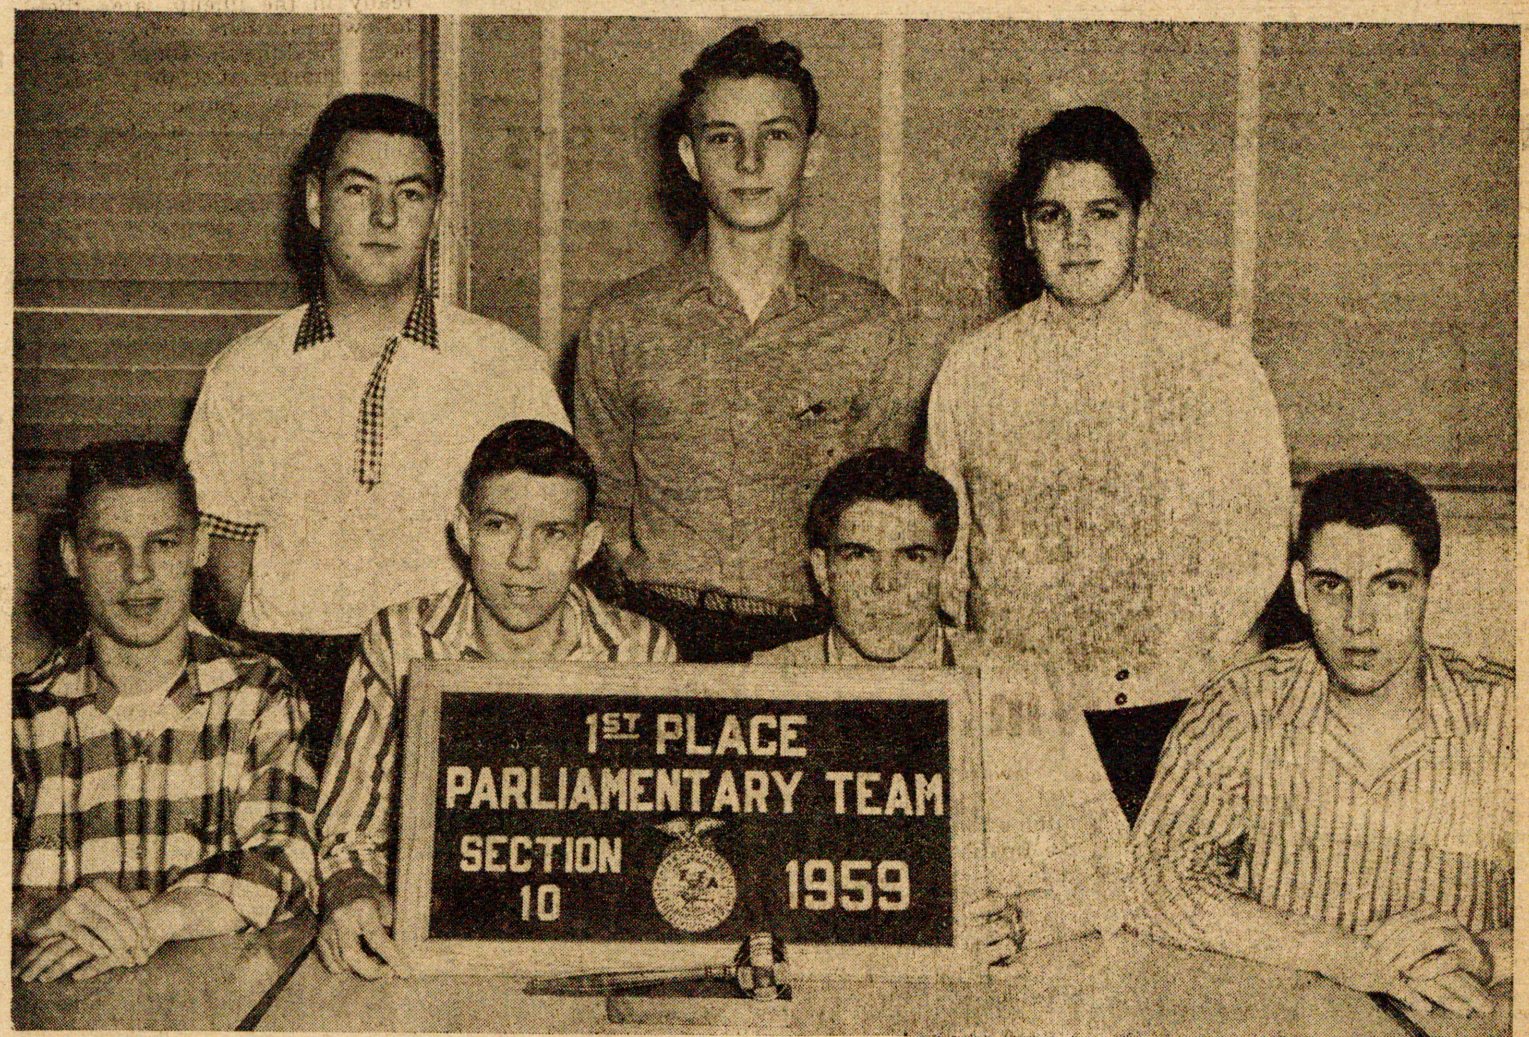

The high honor of first place was given to about 15 per cent of the projects. Representing the fields of physics, chemistry, biology, general science and mathematics a total of 176 projects were entered.

Reed Williams, displaying a very unique setup for the control of air, titled "Flow Controllers," was given the distinction of having the fair's most outstanding project.

Three cash awards were given by the Palos-Orland YMCA to exhibitors that were members of the Inventors club. Bob Stellwagen received the first place award with Gary DeBacher and Russel LaMania picking up second and third place money.

The unusually fine array of projects attracted the largest crowd to attend a Sandburg Science Fair with estimates of about 2,000 students and parents on hand to examine the efforts. All of the work on the projects was done outside of school, not during class time.

Others winning first place awards were Bill Schultz, Jim Hammond, Dave Macarus, Jim Newman and Doug Blount, CHAMPION PARLIAMENTARIAN — The Future Farmers parliamentary team of Lincoln-Way high school won the Section Ten contest at Watseka last week, the highest honor that a high school parliamentary team can realize in competition.

Lincoln-Way was first in its semi-final round and defeated Central of Clifton, Milford, Watseka, Crescent-Troquois and Donavan in the evening final round.

This was the first victory in the history of the New Lenox high school. In 1957 they had finished second.

Bryan Smith, Don Waldvogel, Wayne Lauffer, Dan Walker,

and Al Waldvogel were the regular five team members. Robert Manzke and Jack Gretz were the first alternates.

Don Waldvogel was considered the top secretary in the contest and Chairman Bryan Smith of Manhattan missed the top spot by a half point. Lincoln-Way's floor team of Wayne Lauffer, Dan Walker and Al Waldvogel were rated first.

All the members of this year's winning team are underclassmen, and two of them are sophomores. In the picture (l to r) standing are Robert Manzke, Dan Walker and Jack Gretz; seated, Wayne Lauffer, Donald Waldvogel, Bryan Smith, chairman and Al Waldvogel.

$189 a Year for Water and Sewer

(CNS)—Home buyers in a new subdivision in Orland Park township face average monthly bills of $15.75 or $189 annually for water and sewer service.

The rates are proposed by Fernway Utility Company, Inc. in its application before the ICC to be the water and sewer public utility in the Fernway subdivision.

Near Tinley Park and Orland Park, the area consists of 140 acres lying south of 163rd street on 88th ave. Construction plans call for 218 homes, said Paul M. Smith Jr., attorney for the utility and the subdivider, Fernway Construction Co. of Ohio.

Options to purchase additional farmland for ultimate construction of almost 1,000 homes are held by the firm, Smith said. The residences will sell for about $15,000, he said. The homes will be on half acre lots.

At a hearing in Chicago, Fernway witnesses estimated construction costs of water and sewer facilities at $361,991. Sewage would be treated in an oxidation pond.

Proposed rates submitted for ICC approval to Gordon Cavanaugh, hearing officer, include a $5 minimum monthly charge for water and $4 for sewer service. The case was taken under advisement. A company official estimated the average water bill would be $8.75 monthly and the sewer bill $7.

Monthly water rates, if approved, would be $1.50 per 1,000 gallons for the first 4,000 gallons; $1.25 a 1,000 for the next 3,000 gallons; 80 cents a 1,000 for the next 5,000, and 50 cents a 1,000 for all over 12,000 gallons. Sewer services, also metered, would cost $4 for the first 4,000 gallons and $1 a 1,000 for all above that.

CITIZENS GROUP—

In some instances where special assessment bonds are used the contractors involved wind up taking a considerable portion of them, the engineer said. In order for the contractors to unload them Hamilton explained, the bonds are sold at a heavy discount, sometimes as much as 40 per cent. Therefore, for the contractor to make a profit he must hike his bid. Most contractors, Hamilton added, refuse to bid on a job to be paid for on a special assessment basis.

Under special assessments the cost of the project is divided among the property owners according to the size of the lot and the benefits received. An improvement does not necessarily have to pass directly in front of a piece of property for that property to be assessed. If benefited the property is still assessed and the municipality itself pays a portion of the cost thru a special tax that everyone pays, according to available information. A special assessment against a piece of realty is a lien against such property but there can be no forced sale of property to satisfy it. One of the reasons why special assessment bonds are in dispute, it was explained, is because there are so many of them that have never been paid.

Hamilton told the group Monday night the sewer mains will be laid in alleys whenever possible. A section of the main business street, Kansas, is not served by alleys and will therefore accommodate the line. There are some other spots where the sewers will be placed in the streets, Hamilton said, but most of the mains will be in alleys.

Service lines running off the mains will be carried to within five feet or less of property lines, Hamilton said. Property owners will have to pay the cost of running the line from their homes to the service stubs but there will be no tap in fee for those who sign up for the sewer.

In signing for the sewer, each applicant will be required to make a $10 deposit. By this means the bond houses know that the signatures are bona-fide. This deposit will be returned to the property owner after the system is in operation.

tion or he may have it applied on his water and sewer bill.

Persons that tap on later, Hamilton said, will be charged a fee. He said that the village board would pass an ordinance setting up tap-in fees, probably $100 or $150 plus interest that would compound. Thus the person with a vacant lot that may not improve it for a number of years will be paying a substantial sum when he does hook up with the water and sewer system.

The sewage treatment plant will resemble a ranch house in appearance, Hamilton said. He explained that the type recommended is the modified activated sludge system. The effluent will be 90 per cent pure, he said, and there will be no odor as chlorine will be added in dry periods when the drainage ditch into which the effluent will make its way to Hickory creek is not carrying much of a flow of water.

Imhoff tanks, Hamilton said, give off objectionable odors. The plant designed for Frankfort would serve a population of 3,500 but can be enlarged easily by adding tanks to serve practically any population the community may have in the foreseeable future, Hamilton said.

Sludge from the plant would be disposed of to farmers as it is rich in nitrates, has high fertilizing quality and with the lime that is added during the processing it makes an all around good soil builder, the engineer said.

He estimated that the operating costs of the sewer system would be approximately $13,000 a year, of which $6,000 would be for a superintendent who would also operate the treatment plant.

Hamilton told the group that the sewer system would cost approximately $230,000; the treatment plant, $133,000. Engineering and legal fees, contingencies, interest during the construction period and easement costs would bring the overall figure up to an estimated $444,500, he said.

This would be financed, he explained, by issuing $140,000 of general obligation bonds, $280,000 in revenue bonds and raising at least $50,000 from private sources.

An application will be made for a government grant when and if congress appropriates money for the purpose under a measure calculated to aid in clearing streams of pollution the engineer added. Right now there are no funds for this purpose. Mokena had a grant of some $60,000 but even if funds are made available now the grant for Frankfort will not be as large, Hamilton said, because the grants have been reduced. He figures that if Frankfort did get a federal grant it would be about $40,000 but that would serve to reduce the cost on the water and sewer users.

People present at Monday's meeting represented every organization in the community, public and private.

In explaining the amount each user could expect to pay for use of the sewer plus water, Hamilton read off a schedule of rates based on gallons of water used. It was the same schedule as adopted by Mokena. Under this schedule a family using 4,000 gallons of water in two months would pay $9.20. This would cover the cost of the water as well as the sewer service charge. The more water used, the more the bill. A scale is set up to cover this.

The majority of the people present at Monday's meeting didn't like this. They wanted to know just what the sewer service would cost them. They argued that persons could use a lot of water and still not make much use of the sewers, and thought it unfair to make a person pay more because he used a lot of water, whereas persons using less city water might be making more use of the sewers thru means of their cisterns.

Hamilton explained that regardless of whether there was waste in it, any water that went thru the sewers had to be processed and that cost money. He added that he was glad to get an explanation for the low water consumption in Frankfort. The people present told him that many persons in Frankfort used cistern water for sanitary purposes and laundering. From the figures it would appear that only the newest homes in Frankfort are without cisterns and are therefore wholly dependent on the village water supply.

Figures taken from meter readings in the village over the last two years, Hamilton said, show the per capita consumption of water in Frankfort is 20 gallons a day, as compared to 38 to 40 gallons per capita in the poorest sections of large cities. The average water bill in Frankfort, the figures show, runs about $16 a year.

The people present Monday night believed that it would be more equitable to charge a flat rate for sewerage for residential purposes than to have it based on the amount of water used. They felt that $6 a month would be a reasonable charge and that there would be few objectors at that figure. They felt that the water rate should be subjected to only a nominal increase. Even if the present rate is doubled the increase could be described as nominal, it was pointed out, as $10 a year as a minimum charge for water must be accepted as unusually low.

With a $6 flat charge for sewer service and $1 to $1.50 a month for water the average household would thus pay $7 to $7.50 a month, it was pointed out.

Burton Breidert, chairman of the planning commission, explained that the sewer program has been brought up at this time because of imminent annexations which would add many homesites to the village. One of these tracts is the McIntosh subdivision at U. S. 45 and 30. If such an area were annexed to the village before a sewer program was launched, Breidert said, then the village would be responsible for installing lateral sewers there. In this particular tract the cost to the village would be another $125,000, Breidert said. Under the present setup, with the sewer program under consideration and passage of an ordinance requiring subdividers to install sewers and join their systems to those of the village if available, McIntosh will have to stand this cost.

If subdividers are away from the village where they can't connect with village sewers, they must provide their own treatment plants, according to a Frankfort ordinance. The village board will take bids on G. O. bonds next Monday night. An election on such a bond issue will be held in early May, according to present plans.

Here are the eight leading causes of farm fires:

1. Defective chimneys
2. Sparks on combustible roofs
3. Inadequate lightning protection.
4. Carelessness with matches.
5. Spontaneous combustion.
6. Improper use of gasoline, kerosene
7. Unsafe stove and furnace installations.
8. Misuse of electricity

The new officers of the South Cook Soil Conservation District as elected at the last board meeting, are: chairman, Henry Andresen, Orland Park; vice chairman, Robert Breitbarth, Tinley Park; secretary, Simon DeBoer, Chicago Heights; treasurer, Leonard Kloss, Chicago Heights. The other director is Earl Siemsen, Tinley Park. The board is assisted by the following alternate directors: Art Brandau and William Stelter of Tinley Park, and Melvin Rohlfing, Matteson. These men are dedicated to the cause of soil and water conservation.

There will be a dairy fitting, judging and showmanship school for 4H members with dairy projects, Saturday afternoon, April 4th, 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. The school will be held at the Walter Lauffer farm, 104th avenue just south of 179th street. Calvin Meyer of Peotone, will help conduct the school. All 4Hers with dairy projects are urged to attend.

This is the time of year to fertilize lawns and evergreens. Apply 20 to 30 pounds of 10-10-10 mix fertilizer per thousand square feet of lawn. For evergreens, apply two pounds of the same material per 100 square feet or surface under the branches of the trees. This treatment will help you have an attractive lawn and beautiful evergreens throughout the summer.

The dormant season is the time for pruning many trees and shrubs. In pruning, remove all dead and injured branches and branches that affect the beauty or conformation of the tree or shrub. In pruning, follow the contour of the plant and allow it to maintain its natural shape.

You won't believe this, but it is quite difficult to weed to grow in mid winter. College of Agriculture agronomists Fred Slife and Ralph Gantz are attempting to have live weed plants in an exhibition at the Farm and Home Festival. They found they had to give these weeds great care and be sure they received plenty of water and fertilizer to give a good growth. From this we can see that weeds are stiff competitors to desirable plants for water and fertilizer.

25 Years of Community Service Reviewed by Tinley Woman's Club

Reminiscences covering 25 years of varying but rewarding services performed for its community by the Tinley Park Woman's club were reviewed for 75 members and guests by Mrs. Benton L. Moore, president, at the anniversary meeting in the American Legion Hall March 25.

Past presidents, charter members and new members all received corsages of pink carnations with silver decorations, and the tea table and "birthday cake" were done in matching pink and silver.

The historical review brought smiles of remembrance at one of the most ambitious undertakings—the judging of a national recipe contest in the late 30's. There were 15,000 recipes that required 10 weeks of arduous but appetizing checking before a winner could be announced.

Volunteer support of bond and fund drives, tag days, the mobile x-ray unit, Tinley Park and Oak Forest hospitals, Girl Scouts, the library and other civic projects were chronicled as part of the busy history. Tinley's first flower show was sponsored by the club's garden department.

Twelve different presidents have led the club during this period. Three have passed away, but seven others are still active members.

Honor was paid to Mrs. Charles Nielsen, first president and a charter member, and to these past presidents: Mesdames Walter Eichelberg, Voris Miller, and Lewis Schawver. Charter members present for the ceremonies were Mrs. William Semmler, Mrs. Olive Panknin, Mrs. John Swisher and Mrs. Harry Mager.

New members inducted at the meeting included Mesdames Dean Acklin, Thos. Franklin Dean Acklin, Thomas Franklin Fred Fremder, E. W. Lunaburg Wilbert Mager, William McBurney, John Molan, Walter Scott and Melvin Stege.

Special guests were Mrs. Ed ward Durkee, president of the Third District of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Vincent Holmberg, second vice president. Nearby towns whose clubs were represented at the meeting are Lansing, Morgan Park, Beverly Hills, Blue Island, Brainerd and Homewood. Members of these Tinley Park organizations also were present: American Legion, Friends of the Library, Girl Scouts, Home Bureau, League of Women Voters, Tinley Park Garden Club, Woman's Society for Christian Service, VFW Auxiliary and the Zion Lutheran Woman's organization.

Attend HIA
Annual Meeting
At Springfield
Mrs. Joseph N. Scott of New Lenox, and Mrs. Earl Kennisson of Manhattan, were Will County representatives at the annual meeting of the Illinois
Health Improvement Association, held in Springfield on March 26 and 27.
HIA officials from Will County met with over 200 leaders
from other Illinois County
HIA's to evaluate the individual community programs and to plan for more expansive programs in 1959.
The HIA's are organized
throughout the state to work towards bringing better health
and better health care facilities to the rural communities.
A new record membership
of 70,691 was reported by HIA
president, Mrs. John B. Rice of Sheldon.
Through the efforts of the organization many students interested in careers in the field
of health have attended college thru a student loan fund
at Southern Illinois University.
A broad scholarship program
is also being planned for health education majors.
Participation in other health services are conducted thru various agencies.
Rev. Erick Bizer and Rev. Ben
Day for their visits and prayers. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

Adding to the beauty
of the Easter service was the baritone solo by Boyd Fees,
song leader from Olivet Nazarene college at Kankakee. Also special guests were Frank Goetschel,
president of the New Lenox Lions club; Stanley
Gilmore, Toastmasters club
Edward Archer, Veterans
of Foreign Wars, New Lenox;
and James Battles,
police commissioner. Each brought words of welcome
to the new church.

It was explained at the service that the Nazarene church
was organized 50 years ago,
on Oct. 13, 1908 in a small gospel tent in Pilot Point, Texas;
where an appropriate monument was unveiled on its 50th birthday last October.

At the church's inception,
there were 228 churches with 10,414 members. Today, it is stated, there are 4,497 active
churches and 292,194 members;
Sunday school enrollment of 632,125 and church property valued at $169,705,560.00. Currently, a building program is underway in Kansas City
where two major buildings
have been constructed on a 21 acre tract purchased in 1950. One is a $500,000 theological seminary and a $450,000
headquarters building. A new publishing house costing $2,000,000 is to be the third
building contemplated.

Describing the Nazarene church, it was stated, that the Nazarene church has been called a "middle of the road" church, its doctrines being similar to those of the old Methodist church or Wesleyan Methodist group.

The Rev. C. Doyle Baker is pastor of the New Lenox church and services are still being held in the Lions den
each Sunday with Sunday school for all ages at 9:30 a.m.
and worship service at 10:30 a.m.
Evening service is at 7:30 p.m.

The congregation has purchased a site at North Cedar and Wood street and expects to begin building a church
this year.

Covenant Church
Plans 1st Service
At Orland Sunday
Preliminary steps for the establishment of an Evangelical Covenant church at Orland Park have been taken by a group of members in that community and the first worship service is to be conducted this Sunday, April 5, in the American Legion hall, 143rd street,
a block east of U. S. 45.

The service is scheduled to begin at 9:15 and to close at 10:15.

The Rev. Waldemar R. My-
lander, pastor of Oakdale Covenant church at 88th and S.
Norman, Chicago, will be in charge. The Rev. Mr. Mylander will serve the congregation
until it is organized and has its own pastor.

Honor Students

period of the students in upper departments of the Orland Park Elementary school,
four students received high honors with all A's. They are

sik, 6th grade; Patricia Jaeger, seventh grade and Steve Sedgwick, eighth grade.

average were, Cynthia Cooper,

Nazarene Church Opens Officially
At New Lenox
The Church of the Nazarene
which was formed in New Lenox and has been meeting
in the Lions den for several months, was officially organized Easter at the 10:30 a.m.
service. The temporary sanctuary was decorated with Easter lilies.

The Rev. Mark Moore, district superintendent was in charge of the service at which time he officially opened the charter of the church and 22
members joined.

Raymond Armstrong of New Lenox, presented to the new church, a beautiful birch pulpit which he had made.

Dies Suddenly;
Rites Wednesday
John A. Martin, 84, was found dead in his home, 292
First st., Mokena, Saturday morning. Not seeing him up and around as usual, friends
and neighbors went to his home, to investigate, and thru
the window could see him lying on the davenport. Authorities were called who opened
the doors and found him. Dr.
P. T. Demus was called who pronounced him dead and said
it appeared he had died about three hours earlier. Coroner Willard Blood who arrived at the scene soon, bore out the verdict of Dr. Demus.

Born Dec. 7, 1875 in Sudor-gos, Suwalki, Lithuania, he came to this country when a young man, alone. He lived in the Mokena area 60 years. He was united in marriage with the former Minnie Lang on Dec. 31, 1912. They went to Wibaux, Mont., where they home steaded and lived there 18 years before returning to Mokena.

Previous to going to Wibaux
Mr. Martin operated a grocery store in Mokena which was destroyed by fire. At one time
he was maintenance man for the WLS property on route 45;
he also worked at the Mokena Wall Paper mill. He has been retired for nearly 20 years,
during which time he repaired
sewing machines and sharpened saws.

His wife died last November. There is no known survivor outside of his wife's son, Mrs. Marie McAllister, Atlanta, Ga., who has always been thoughtful of him, and his wife's brother, John Lang, Grand Island, Neb.

Removal was made to the Hirsch funeral home in Tinley Park from where services were held Wednesday morning to St. Mary's Catholic church in Mokena, with the Rev. Fr. Cecil Koop officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

State Vocational Board Praises
L-W Teacher
Joseph Kruzich, 213 S. Center, Mokena, head of department of industrial arts at Lincoln-Way community high school, has received high praise from the Board of Vocational Education of the state of Illinois.

John W. Walgren, supervisor of industrial arts education,
in a letter to school principal,
A. Hunter Chapman, asked permission to refer interested people to see and observe the industrial arts program at Lincoln-Way. "I would, like ... people to observe particularly the class organization that has been worked out," Mr.
Walgren said.

Walgren cited Kruzich as
"continuing to do an outstanding job of teaching and developing into a good department head."

The Vocational Board felt
that the added facilities planned for Lincoln-Way's new addition will improve the now overcrowded situation that exists.

Finally, the note from the state board stated that universities looking for locations to place their student teachers in Industrial arts will be referred to Lincoln-Way's department.

L-Way Science
Head to Attend
Nat'l Convention
Neil Hardy, chairman of the Lincoln-Way high school science department, will spend
the weekend at Atlantic City, N. J. attending the 7th national convention of the National Science Teachers Association.

Hardy will be a resource person in the discussion group on
"Designing and Conducting Science Fairs in Line with Educational Purposes."

At the same time Mr. Hardy
the chairman elect of Illinois
Junior Academy of Science
will consult with Joseph H.
Kraus, coordinator of the National Science Fair, Dr. Phillip Johnson, chairman of NSTA,
and the head of Junior Academy of Science, in an attempt to effect coordination between these groups.

This effort at coordination is prompted by the Wright Bill
which is now up in Congress.
The bill concerns secondary science programs.

Hardy will also meet with the editorial committees of the NSTA publications the "Science Teacher" and "Student Publication."

Orland to Get Improvement on 100th Avenue
At the urging of the Orland Park village board the Cook county highway department
has included an improvement
in its 1959 program that will be beneficial to the community.

This is the 100 avenue project involving improvement of the grade crossing and approaches where the Wabash
railroad crosses near 145th st.

According to a letter received by the board from William J. Mortimer, superintendent of highways for Cook county, 100th avenue is included in the 1959 program for the acquisition of right of way essential to improving the crossing described above.

Getting the right of way has been the stumbling block in the improvement but Mayor
W. R. Schussler Jr., believes that it can be obtained now.

In its letter to the board the highway department says that in the normal course of events
work will begin in the summer of 1960. The village board is not satisfied with this, however, and hopes to get speedier action. If the right of way can be obtained in the near future the board has hopes that the work can be advanced to this summer.

While the village board has not yet accepted the streets
in Oak Meadows—so in reality
their maintenance is the responsibility of the subdivider,
the board has taken action to get some of the holes on Oakley avenue filled.

Local Problems
Speech Topics
Of Toastmasters
Two of the formal speeches
at the last meeting of New Lenox Toastmasters club had to do with current village problems.

Don Anderson presented the need for sewer and water system and outlined the history
of work previously done in this area.

Stanley Gilmore spoke on the value of industrial development as a source of employment and tax income.

In the third formal speech
of the event, Ronald Whitaker
pointed out the value of Toastmaster training to the man and to his community.

John Burlingame, as topic
master, gave out topics for impromptu presentation by other members. William Wilson presided as a toastmaster.
Lew Loebe and William Heid-
rich, as evaluators, presented constructive criticism of the work of the speakers.

Sandburg Board Studies Bids on
New Addition
Bids on the new addition to Carl Sandburg high school to be started this year were opened at a meeting of the board
Wednesday night of last week.

The bids are now being studied and a report made back to the board. Contracts will be awarded April 13, it was announced. No figures are available yet, it was announced.

The work is divided into four divisions, general contract, plumbing, heating and ventilating and electrical, and
each will be awarded separately.

A bond issue of $1,033,000
was approved by the voters of the district recently to meet
the cost of the new addition,
the landscaping and the purchase of a new site in the southern part of the district.

Bishop to Open Hospital Fund
Drive Sunday
Bishop Martin D. McNamara
of the Joliet diocese, will kick off the parish drive for funds in the St. Joseph hospital building campaign Sunday with an appeal over Joliet's radio station, WJOL, at 3 pm.

In addition to Bishop McNamara's radio discussion Sunday, an appeal will be made in all Catholic churches thruout the diocese at Sunday masses.

Team captains have been selected in all parishes, and final organization of team
members is expected to be completed before Sunday.

A week from Sunday, April 12, solicitation of funds will commence following a dedication of workers in each parish.

On Monday, April 6, Art Barron, comptroller of St. Joseph hospital, will speak at St.
Jude's Catholic church, New Lenox, according to Rev. Dennis Hall, pastor.

On Wednesday, April 8,
Paul Kempe, superintendent of Silver Cross hospital, will address a group at Mokena.

The Mokena meeting will be in the form of an information
dinner to be served at 7 o'clock in the Social Center. Civic leaders of Mokena will attend.
Officials of Silver Cross hospital, which is undergoing an expansion program, itself, are in a good position to know the hospital needs of the area and are supporting the St. Joseph fund drive. The Rev. Cecil Koop, OFM, is pastor at St.
Mary's.

Parishes in the diocese are expected to raise $1,250,000 by the end of April.

John J. Weber, lay chairman of the hospital drive, declared
this week: "Up until this new hospital program the Sisters of St. Joseph have never sought public funds, and this time
their appeal is an earnest and sincere one. It merits everyone's support. We must have a new hospital. The present
hospital is old and outmoded
with a shortage of bed space.
We can no longer ask patients
to occupy a bed in the halls.

"Our lineup will be or underclassmen, but we hope to improve on some of those 150 batting averages of last year reported Lashmet. Yunker has looked extremely strong on the mound. He throws a good fast ball and if he has control—we'll have a good pitcher."

I believe that our sophomores and juniors can do it."

The Knights won just four games last year and Lashmet has reported that he will be happy with a .500 season. Monday should give some indication of what is to come. Crete-Monee is not particularly strong. In fact, they will have just an average team. L-Way should win by a fair margin in this game—

if they are going to make trouble in the SW Suburban which opens next Friday. Lincoln-Way and Bremen will tangle in the opener next Friday.

TEENAGERS in Tinley Park enjoyed a varied sport program at the Central school. When the photographer peeked in last week, he found a handball game in progress on boys' night Monday, and a thrilling experience for the girls on Wednesday as they tried out the recently purchased trampoline. Over 100 teens are registered for the program, which is sponsored by the village and Recreation commission. Other activities include table tennis, volleyball and badminton, basketball, and tumbling. The boys also have wrestling sessions and tournaments are held on all sports. The directors of the program are William Kosteci and Kenneth Webster, teachers at the school. (Marvin Smith photos)

How much will it cost to send men to outer space? U. S. News & World Report says the round trip ticket to the moon will be $60 million, or $100 a mile. In comparison, flying around the world now costs $100 a mile at tourist air rates.

STUDENT COUNCIL The annual Student Council election was held at Lincoln-Way Community High School of New Lenox last week. The upper class members of the council were all reelected.

Members of the council from next year's senior class are: Margie Ardaugh of Manhattan; Kenneth Lorenz of Mokena; Jim McGuire of Manhattan; Bryan Smith of Manhattan; Larry Surges of New Lenox; Larry Wennlund of New Lenox.

Those representing the Class of 1961 are Bob Breidert of Frankfort; Gayle Harling of Mokena; Wayne Lauffer of Mokena; Bob Lichtenwalter of Manhattan; and Pat Loucks of Mokena.

Next year's sophomores voted for Judy Bailey of Manhattan; Cheryl Crabtree of Manhattan; Jean Kozumplik of Mokena; and Dan Williams of Mokena.

Browsing Through The Cold Stove League

Baseball is in the air—now and then. Evergreen Park is the pick of the experts in the SW Suburban League. I don't know the experts.

Sandburg and Lincoln-Way are fielding inexperienced teams, both loaded with underclassmen. Bremen has numerous vets, but are not considered too high a championship prospect.

Last week's column brought some repercussions, but none of them were signed.

What we said last week, we still stand for. We expect the whole truth in any situation and not someone's sentiment. The world has been hurt many times because some man did not get the facts straight.

Young people are too often hurt by misty-eyed sports fans. If you watch and help them—please don't oppress them.

The Semmler Press will produce a special section of the SV Suburban Track and Field meeting the last week in May. This section will probably be a four page section and similar to the SW Suburban Wrestling tourney section.

Bob Rodger of Bremen high school and a Tinley Park resident was picked as honorable mention on the Chicago all-area team a few weeks ago.

Track and field will open next week—this should be an interesting season. Some papers and persons have picked the Braves of Bremen and the Rich team to get together for another go as they did in basketball a couple years ago.

Since its founding in 1937, Ducks Unlimited has conducted what The Wall Street Journal describes as "a sort of privately-supported foreign aid program in neighboring Canada," with the support and financial assistance of the provincial Canadian governments. More than 725,000 acres have been flooded, and a like amount seeded and set aside as marsh and grassland. The result: North America's duck population has recently been estimated at more than 150 million—a 500 per cent increase since 1937.

SIGNS OF SPRING—(l to r) Frank Zator, of 16825 Riverside Dr., Tinley Park, has found the warming temperatures a stimulant to plans for his yard . . . but first one must pick up those leaves missed last fall; Albert Belanger, of

Mokena, yielded to spell of clear skies and sunshine to touch up some spots on the stoop at his home on Francis road; Arthur Neff, an employee of the village of Tinley, is shown performing an annual spring task—filling holes that winter has worn in the streets. This particular hole was on 171st street in Parkside and there are plenty more where that one came from. The last picture illustrates the other side of spring. This is not just a season for work, it is also a season for play and enjoyment and this young lady here, Eloise Ferguson, of 6560 Park Side Drive, Tinley, understands that perfectly. Skipping rope may be work at 30, 50 or 70 but not when one is eight like Eloise.

Wild Ride Kills One

Crash Stolen Car at 159th & Wolf

A wild ride in a stolen car ended up on a slab in a morgue for one teenager and hospital beds for his three companions Wednesday night of last week. The crash occurred about 8 o'clock.

Three other persons were reported injured.

Police quote one of the injured teenagers, Stewart Weiner, 16, 3757 W. 84th pl. as saying that Randall Dougherty, 16, of 3637 W. 84th st., stole a car from the home of Stanley Wiczorek, 8832 S. 51st ave., Oak Lawn, and then picked up him, Thomas Hathaway, 16, of 3601 W. 85th pl., and Michael Shull, 15, of 3733 W. 86th st.

They started out, Weiner

is quoted, "for a good time riding around."

Dougherty is said to have been at the wheel. He ran a stop sign at 127th in Alsip, while traveling at high speed and a policeman gave chase. At 159th street Dougherty ran another stop sign and then turned west on 159th.

At Wolf road Dougherty applied the brakes and the car spun and crashed into the rear of a car that had halted for the 4-way stop. In the car were Fred T. Vanderhyden, 24, of 6200 W. 127th st., Worth, and his pregnant wife, Betty, 25. Both were injured.

Their car was hurled into one driven by Addell Rapoport, 69, of Chicago Heights. She and a companion, Agnes Kurtz, also of Chicago Heights, escaped injury.

The stolen car then shot across the wide intersection and struck an east bound auto driven by Josephine Talago of 204 Moran st., Joliet, slightly injuring her. The Talago car hurled against one driven by Blanche Ganster, 121 Luna st., Joliet. She was uninjured. The Hathaway boy was killed outright. Weiner and Shull were taken to St. Francis hospital at Blue Island; Dougherty to the hospital at Oak Forest.

The Vanderhydys were taken to St. Francis hospital and held for observation until Thursday afternoon when they were released.

School Head Explains District Needs and Plans to City Council

By EVELYN VAN HORN
Sycamore 8-8921

At the regular meeting of the city council last week, School Supt. Zenon Sykuta was granted permission to explain that the Country Club Hill school district plans to hold a referendum April 11 for the approval of three issues (1) sales of $59,000 in bonds, (2) levy special taxes up to $14,000 to pay rent on the 8-room school and any major repair, (3) extension of school year. Supt. Sykuta also explained that commercial property would help the school considerably because the assessment would be high and would not add more children to the school rolls.

Mayor Eugene Landenberg announced that the Heinke farm where a shopping center had been proposed, had changed owners and that his father-in-law, Ed Suhs, president of Tinley Park Dairy and vice president of Tinley Park Savings and Loan Association, was the new owner. Mr. Landenberg by direct questions addressed to Mr. Suhs, established that neither he nor any one of his family had any financial interest in this transaction. Mr. Suhs said that he had not had time since the purchase to establish any kind of a plan for the area but expected to put up a grocery and milk store similar to the kind the dairy has in Tinley Park. He also stated that he had been approached by persons wishing to construct a hardware and drug store. Mr. Suhs could not give any indications as to the time such construction could begin. The water and sewage problem is still to be solved.

Commercial zoning of the area which has been known as the Heinke farm was not approved. The vote being 4 to 2 against. Alderman Nally suggested that due to the fact that the new owners had no plans and that a safety factor still existed, when such plans were ready, the owner could go to the zoning board of appeals and still receive commercial zoning for the area. Alderman Gaertner said he believed the safety factor had been resolved but agreed with Nally since there was no plan of any kind that when such plan was evolved the commercial zoning could be accomplished by an appeal to the zoning board of appeals. The zoning ordinance was then passed.

An election ordinance was passed setting up wards, polling places and appointing judges. Ward I comprises the area bounded on the north by 167th st. to Bremen Highway to Cicero, on the west by Cicero including the area just west of Cicero between 171 and 175th, on the south by 183rd st. to where Patrick would intersect with 183 if street extended out, and Patrick on the east to 175th st. Patrick does not extend this far in either direction but the council felt this does divide the two units so all residents west of where Patrick would be if extended are in Ward I and all residents east of this imaginary line are in Ward II. Ward II is bounded on west by Patrick as explained and on north by 175th st., on east by Kostner and on south by 183 st. Ward III comprises all the area south of 183rd st.

Judges for Ward I are Mary F. Hennessey, Lorraine C.

Gran, Lucille F. Raddatz, Ray A. Bergmann, George T. Huemmer and the polling place is the Firehouse, 18220 Patrick. Judges for Ward II are Frank M. Hughes, Wanda A. Steury, John R. Tyrell, Robert R. Thompson, Betty J. Spencer and polling place will be a resident garage belonging to Stanley Sokolowski, 18010 Thomas Lane. Ward III judges are Helen L. Russell, Edward L. Scharbach, Beatrice S. Mason, Beverly L. Kruse, Frances B. Leininger and the polling place is the old construction office located on N. E. corner of 184th and Cicero.

It was revealed that the 183rd St. Water and Sewer Co. had filed their rates with the Illinois commerce commission and will now be required to extend its lines to persons in the city requesting that service.

Alderman Gaertner reported that an investigation is being made in regard to declaring certain streets arterial streets. He also moved that $300 be spent to fill the chuck holes in streets in Unit I and II.

Alderman Pentzien read a petition which had been presented to the council urging that the members study costs and make recommendations for the enclosure of the main ditches, for the protection of the children. Alderman Pentzien is working on this.

A traffic survey will be taken as required by law before the establishment of speed laws. This survey will include the streets within the city as well as Cicero and 183rd st. and will be conducted free.

Boy Scouts

Herbert Nelson is the new assistant scout master. Five men of the scout committee attended a leaders basic training course, Nelson, Robert Adler, William Lindecker, William Korner and William Marquardt.

The scouts and committee want to thank everyone who has helped with the paper drive and remind the residents that the drive will continue and paper will be picked up the first and third Saturdays of each month.

A Committee meeting will be held on April 2 at 8 p.m. at the home of William Lindecker. At this meeting a discussion will be held in regard to future equipment purchase and parents night.

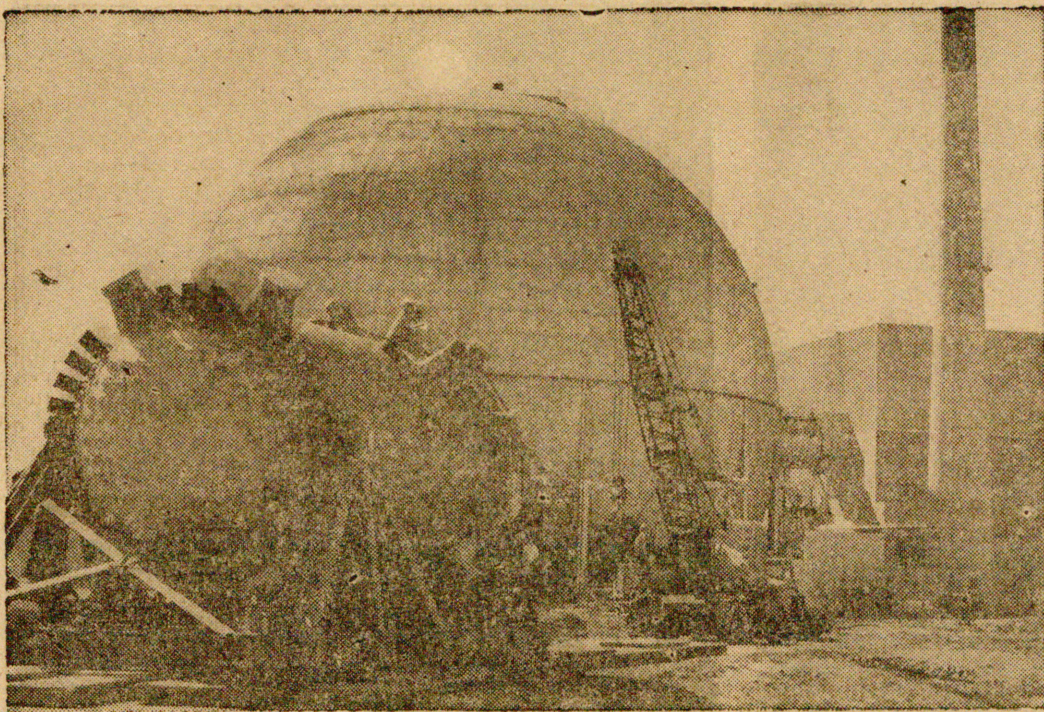

Candidate Night

The Country Club Hills Jaycees are sponsoring a "Meet Your Candidate Night" on April 7, 1959 at 8 p.m. at Saenger hall, Tinley Park.

Stardust Stroll

The dance sponsored by the Homeowners Association will be Saturday, April 11. The proceeds will go to the school. Each block representative will have tickets for sale for the dance.

A special meeting of the PTA was held Wednesday,

THE 300-TON ATOMIC POWER REACTOR

for Commonwealth Edison company's Dresden nuclear power station is now being installed at the plant near Morris. The largest nuclear power reactor ever built is shown just before it was moved into the 190-foot steel sphere.

After installation the reactor will be loaded with enriched uranium fuel elements and is to be ready for start-up this fall. Following several months of test operation, the plant is expected to be ready for regular service by mid-1960.

Dresden Station, which will be owned and operated by the Commonwealth Edison-Public Service company system, is being built by General Electric company for a contract price of $45,000,000. The station will be the first full-scale, privately financed nuclear power plant to come into operation in the United States.

The 180,000-kilowatt capacity of the boiling water reactor plant will be sufficient to serve a city of 250,000 population. Output of the plant will feed into the interconnected transmission system of Commonwealth Edison company and its Public Service company division.

March 25 at Central school. The purpose of the meeting was so the members of the Board of Education could explain the forthcoming referendum.

William Hastings, president of the Board of Education, announced that this special election or referendum will be held on April 11, polls will be open from 12 noon until 7 p.m. The State Building Commission has approved and authorized the building of an eight room school building and will advance the money. The voters of the school district must now give their permission by a yes vote on this referendum.

The state will supplement the available bonding power to the amount necessary to build the building. This money supplied by the state is interest free thus reducing the cost of the building. The school district has bonding power up to $59,000 and the state will advance $93,000 to be repaid over a 17 year period making the cost of the building $152,000. The cost of the building at the time of the first payment in 1961 will be approximately 16 cents per $100 valuation. The cost to the average Country Club Hills homeowner would be $10.21. As the valuation of the district goes up the cost per house will go down. The estimated cost in 1962 reduces average Country Club Hills house from $10.21 to $8.85. These costs include the payment on bonds and the repayment to the state.

A rumor relating to the disbanding of Central school that had been circulating among the residents west of Cicero was dispelled and also a rumor about discontinuing bus service were scotched by the board.

Mr. Hastings requested that any person having any questions pertaining to the referendum or the new school, call either him or Supt. Sykuta.

Mrs. John Toner, former vice president of the PTA, was appointed to fill out the term of secretary of the Southwestern PTA Council. She has been elected to this office for the coming year.

Jack Sutton has resigned as publicity chairman of Suburban Life Party, but not from the party itself.

Over 100 children turned out for the Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by the Teen Club Saturday. Johnny Mitchell found the "Magic Egg" in the 1-5 grouping and won a big chocolate bunny. Bill Barthel was the lucky winner of the 6-12 group.

United Christian Church

The United Christian church closed its charter membership roll this past Sunday, one year after it had been opened, with 100 members. Present at the service Sunday was Dr. J. J. Van Boskirk, executive secretary of the Chicago Disciples Union. He was the organizing pastor in opening the charter roll last Easter.

Capital Punishment Is Futile

There is a bill in the legislature which would put a moratorium on capital punishment in Illinois for the next six years. A similar measure was adopted in the house of the general assembly two years ago but died in the senate.

Many opinions have been expressed on the subject, pro and con.

Laws are enacted to protect society from the schemes and acts of individuals and groups that may result in injury, loss of property or life itself. The penalties included are supposed to deter persons from committing such acts.

The late Circuit Judge Frederick A. Hill of Will County, who was quite a student of the law and its workings, once spent several months as a visitor to the English law courts that he might study their methods and procedures at first hand.

Following this, plus his observations of American justice at work, he came to the conclusion the swiftness and certainty of punishment was more of a deterrent to law violations than the type of punishment.

He compared the penalty for murder in Illinois and in England. In Illinois a person convicted of murder may be sentenced to the penitentiary for any term of years not less than 14; life imprisonment or death in the electric chair. In England there is but one penalty for murder—death by hanging.

He also pointed out that in England there was little delay between the time of arrest in a criminal case and the final disposition, including appeals. Whereas, in Illinois there is too much delay in most instances, he contended, and delay favors the criminal. People forget, witnesses forget. Witnesses die. Records get mislaid or lost and technicalities thrive and multiply. Thus the chances of conviction are reduced.

A murderer can always plead guilty, if he fears a jury may impose the death sentence, because few judges have ever imposed it when it is their responsibility alone.

Even if a death sentence is imposed, the chances that it will not be carried out are with the defendant. He may get a new trial and a different verdict; the sentence may be commuted by the governor to life or a term of years, or he can get a pardon.

At Stateville today there is one man awaiting execution. He has been there more than a year. Since December 15, 1928, when the first executions by the electric chair were carried out in the penitentiary at Joliet there have been 13 executed there and at Stateville. There have not been as many at the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Menard. Cook county has its own execution chamber but the times it has been used are few in comparison with the number of murders committed in that jurisdiction.

Records at Stateville show that as of Nov. 12, 1958 there were 618 prisoners in the Northern Illinois Penitentiary serving sentence for murder. Of this number 76 were doing 14 years; 25 doing not more than 19; 88 doing not more than 29; 60 doing not more than 39 years; 65 under sentences ranging from 40 to 74 years; 180 doing from 75 years up and 118 under life sentence.

Two of those now serving time had been sentenced to the chair. In one case the prisoner was granted a new trial at which he was found guilty and sentenced to 150 years. In the other case the sentence was commuted to life.

It is estimated by officials in Illinois familiar with the situation that only one person out of more than 200 that is convicted of murder in the state is ever executed.

Therefore, the death penalty has little or no value as a deterrent.

We are opposed to the death penalty in general. We are also opposed to a variety of penalties for murder. We believe there should be only one, life with a minimum of say 30 years, and no commutation. A pardon should be granted only if the person under sentence is found to be innocent.

Something else should be done by amending laws to reduce the time between arrest and trial and to speed up action on appeals.

We agree with the late Judge Hill, that if there is but one punishment for murder, and that be swift and certain, it is more likely to be a deterring force than having capital punishment on the books as one of many penalties that can be imposed for the same type of crime.

Capital punishment seems so futile.

THE MODERN HOSPITAL Part I

In recent years hospitals throughout the country have been undergoing almost continual expansion and modernization. Despite this progressive growth of facilities and bed capacity, most communities continue to find it difficult to keep up with their hospital needs. It is quite important for people at large to become acquainted with the workings and problems of their hospitals because these institutions now depend a great deal on the understanding and cooperation of one and all.

Some people do not realize that, nowadays, most hospitals are non-profit organizations. The increasing costs of equipment, supplies and labor are so great that the income from hospital charges barely equals the expense of day to day maintenance. It is for this reason that hospitals must turn to their communities for financial support whenever added facilities are needed.

When an individual enters the hospital as a patient, he is wrapped up in his own personal medical problem. He is uncomfortable or in pain, uncertain and anxious, perhaps fearful. Under these circumstances he is naturally impatient with any inconvenience, delay, or added discomforts which or added discomforts which sometimes occur even in the best-run hospital. It is understandable, under these circumstances, why he may take home with him a recollection of these irritations. Since everyone stands a pretty good chance of becoming a patient, some day, an understanding of the hospital's workings may help make such hospitalization less of a trial.

Everyone realizes that staffing and operating a modern hospital is a full-time and complicated job. People sometimes forget that a hospital must meet all the same problems as just one part of its overall responsibility. In addition it must feed every occupant and arrange special diets for almost one-half of them. It must provide close attention and physical assistance to the great majority who are either completely or partially unable to get out of bed without help. Baths, linen changes and bedside care, even for the patients who are recuperating rapidly, consume a tremendous amount of time and labor.

All this must be done as best as can be in the face of a continuing and increasing shortage of nursing help and the necessity of meeting wage scales that also are on the rise. Faced with a chronic shortage of bed space and nurse personnel, the administration must be constantly on the alert for means to increase the efficiency of maintenance and service.

As if these problems were not enough, they must all be considered secondary. The one outstanding function of the hospital revolves around the patient, his illness and his doctor. When the doctor calls to arrange the patient's admission, it sets off a chain of events which does not end until the patient is discharged to return home. Every section of the hospital is affected in some way by each entering patient. The laboratory must perform certain tests and someone must see to it that the testing equipment is modern and accurate, that the technicians are well-trained and conscientious. The same standards must be met in the X-ray department, in the operating room and along every corridor of the floor.

The maternity department has its special problems involving unpredictable arrivals, sometimes three or four at a time. It must care not only for the mother but for the Advertising is one of the most ancient of arts. Perhaps the most ancient.

If one were to say that it is as old as mankind, who is to dispute it?

Cavemen, kings, emperors, commoners, artisans, artists, writers (stone age or modern), law givers, slaves, men and women of all strains of life—civilized and uncivilized, have all made use of advertising in some form since their beginnings.

When the adman came into the picture is a subject that would require long research. It's probably in the same category of the all time puzzler—which came first, the chicken or the egg?

Probably the first admen were what are now known as public relations consultants, which is a fancy term for press agents. They carved and painted the deeds of the celebrities of the time on stone and skins and have been plying their trade ever since.

Most of them begin early in age as witness the messages chalked on sidewalks and buildings, telling the world that John loves Mary T, or vice versa, as the case may be. These volunteer press agents are legion; unpaid, unsung amateurs, if you will, and their chief media the walls of rest rooms, made a national figure out of Kilroy by simple reference to his itinerary.

The message was simple. "Kilroy was here," it stated.

What Kilroy did when he arrived in a community was never disclosed. George Washington could have become known for his predilection for sleeping in strange beds had his prowess as a military leader and statesman not overshadowed this penchant for stopping for lodging when overtaken by nightfall. It seems to me there is even a play with the title, "George Washington Slept Here."

The first Queen Elizabeth of England was another whose tours of the country are still pointed out to present day folks by engraved plates on bedroom walls that call attention to the fact that Elizabeth had caught a bit of shut-eye there.

Elizabeth reigned a long time and toured her land many times so it is only natural that she slept in a lot of places.

No mention was ever made of Kilroy sleeping. As a matter of fact the fellow was in so many places it is doubtful that he ever had time to sleep. He had to spend all his time in travel, altho it is apparent that he had to eat occasionally.

Altho practiced all over the world advertising has probably reached its zenith in this country. The copywriter is quick to hitch his wagon to whatever star has captured the public fancy. And if no star is available at the moment, he makes one.

With all the emphasis that has been placed currently on electronics, chemistry, jet propulsion and space explorations the ad copywriter has it made in spades, as the saying goes. With these fields before him he is in the same position as a youngster turned loose in a candy store with an invitation to eat all he wants.

And if a word or a phrase is found to take with the public there is no end to its possibilities. A person today not only listens to high fidelity records on a high fidelity player, but the chances are he is wearing clothes made of high fidelity synthetic fibers, while he smokes a high fidelity cigaret, with or without a high fidelity filter. He drives a car with a high fidelity engine, high fidelity tires and a high fidelity paint job.

His gasoline may be high fidelity too, altho to manufacture a high fidelity gasoline must impose a difficult task on the refiner. Gasoline today is not just a processing of oil. From the written and spoken eulogies of today's motor fuel there are so many magical, chemical additives in the stuff there can't be room for just gasoline.

These additives have letters and numbers. ABC-27 is certain to give more power. XYZ-301 flushes out carbon; QRS-299 scrubs and cleans the carburetor while you drive; TUV-714 polishes the crankcase, inside and out; DEF-212 gives more pep or is DEF-212 the ingredient that removes your teeth from the film, sweetens the breath and perks up the personality so that selling overcoats to jungle dwellers is a breeze? Or maybe that's the stuff that puts added oomph in your vitamins, removes ice from driveways and gasoline tanks, or causes hair spray to work wonders? Hair spray can be high fidelity, too.

As far as I have been able to learn it is not the fuel that sends man-made satellites into space but the kind of cigarettes the crews smoke. These cigarettes are the choice of men who gets things done. Once in a while one runs into a fellow tinkering around with a rocket that is scheduled to get to the moon, and he fools you. He is all dressed up in a white smock of the type worn by scientists, dentists, laboratory technicians and those cast for roles as surgeons.

Just as you are about to accept him as an expert on space travel you discover that he is an air conditioner salesman with a hobby for building rockets. It is the kind of cigaret he smokes that does it. Apparently a brain is built right into the filter and makes him think.

How he fares when engaged in his regular job of selling air conditioners is not explained but apparently he does all right because building rockets is an expensive pastime.

We hope that eventually the miracle men will get around to our business and come out with a high fidelity instant press, an instant typesetting machine, an instant copywriter, and an instant reporter.

That will be the day!

Business and Finance

The creation, thru mergers,
of U. S. Steel just after the turn of this century, gathered together in one firm, a very large proportion of the total steel making capacity of the country. A considerable segment of our anti-trust laws were pushed thru Congress by using U. S. Steel and its commanding position in the steel making picture, as an example of the dire need to protect the country against such monopoly control of any industrial field.

Students of investment analysis have found that the economics of an industry are much more effective in control of "industry monopoly" than Congressional legislation. Very large firms tend toward creation of cliques and political factions within their organization and which groups fight for enhancement of their particular position within the firm. It sometimes becomes very similar to the activities and efforts of various government agencies and their efforts to push their own departmental importance to a higher and higher level. Increasing size of a department may not have a good effect on the over all earnings of the firm, but the larger the department, the greater the salary and importance of the top departmental chiefs.

An English management consultant named Parkinson created a series of management laws in his writings on this subject. Some of his laws would seem to be almost humorous except for the fact the conditions he covers do exist. One of his "laws" is that almost any sized group, given time, will find work for themselves—even tho it may be only shuffling of made - paper work back and forth.

The study of U. S. Steel up to first World War, indicates earnings average of only 3 per cent on the stated plant account from inception of the company. A cyclical industry such as a steel plant, simply could not continue at this rate of earning. World War I helped this firm considerably.

This company made all types of steel fabrication, from heavy shapes to the lighter pieces. The flat rolled of gauge used in automobiles, refrigerators etc., was not a big item. However, a number of the top men in the fabrication and sales of this firm, observed the relationship of plant investment to sales and profits. They found that heavy shapes were more cyclical in demand as compared with some other items and also required greater investment for production facilities.

A number of these top men started other steel firms in which they tried to eliminate from their own business, those items needing the largest investment with least assurance of steady, profitable business. The advent of demand for sheets suitable for autos, refrigerators etc., emphasized this trend.

The very large steel firms could not profitably take on comparatively small orders in the period following 1929, but the more closely managed and aggressive could and did.

N.I. Gas to Sell $25-Million of Mortgage Bonds

Marvin Chandler, president of Northern Illinois Gas Company, said today that the utility plans to sell $20 million of 25 year first mortgage bonds in June.

NI Gas, he said, expects to file the necessary registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission and petition to the Illinois Commerce Commission about the end of May.

Depending upon market conditions and the required commission clearances, it is tentatively planned to offer the new issue for competitive bidding. Bids are scheduled to be opened on June 23.

The $20 million bond issue, Chandler explained, is part of the estimated $115 million new capital requirements for the company's projected $158 million five year (1959-63) construction program.

This five year outlay provides for system extensions to serve about 150,000 new customers the utility expects to connect during that period. It also includes approximately $32 million for underground gas storage facilities, and $12.5 million for construction of the company's proposed Northern Natural Gas Company pipeline connection between East Dubuque (Illinois) and Des Plaines.

To control sweet clover weevils, apply a granular insecticide at clover planting time. Use either dieldrin or heptachlor at the rate of 1/4 to 1/2 pound an acre, either broadcast or drilled.

The U. S. Steel today has a very much smaller portion of the total steel business, but obviously has gained from this previous experience. Today alloys and steel are purchased to meet particular "use" requirements. Steel is no longer purchased merely as steel, but rather impact value, heat resistance, machining etc.

The large firms in the electronics field are having difficulties of their own. Engineers creating these various new devices are few in number compared to the demand for their services and training.

Today most large firms are having difficulty holding their best men who are being lured into new and smaller firms where they can be given a stock interest with prospects of capital gains. The very large firm has real difficulty competing.

An example of this is had in the data processing field which has an unlimited potential. Two small and successful firms manufacturing and designing data processing equipment were recently formed by groups of top engineers who left the largest firms in the field.

Trace Checks Stolen at Palos To Alleged Fence and Passers

(CNS) Six men charged with interstate passing of fraudulent checks, including some stolen in a $27,600 burglary at the Jewel Tea store, 12342 So. Harlem, Palos Heights March 11, 1956, were rounded up by the FBI last week.

The alleged fence of one ring charged with passing $70,000 worth of stolen checks and money orders was held to the federal grand jury Monday by U. S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike. He is Emmett Feinberg, 27, of 4420 1/2 Melrose ave. Previously held were three of his alleged passers: Robert L. Mayberry, 31, of 5557 1/2 Winthrop; Richard S. Bucolic, 39, of 620 Deming place, and John E. Murphy 31, of 1442 Hood av.

Get Bagworms Before They Get Your Evergreens

By JAMES FIZZELL
Asst. Farm Adviser of Cook Co.
Bag worms can cause considerable damage to evergreen trees and shrubs in the Cook county area.

At this time of the year, bag worms can be identified by their gray, spindle shaped sacks, securely attached to twigs and branches of the plants. Within these sacks are the eggs of the bag worm. In May, these eggs will hatch, and the young worms will begin to feed on the evergreen foliage. A large population of bag worms can seriously damage, or even completely defoliate an evergreen in one season.

The easiest method of controlling these insects is to remove all the bags from the plants before the eggs hatch. The bags should then be burned or otherwise destroyed.

If it is impractical to remove all the bags from the plants, spraying the evergreens with lead arsenate at the time the eggs are hatching, will give good control. It is essential that the spray be applied when the worms are very small, because when the worms become large, they are much more difficult to kill. Any spraying done after the end of June is no value, since by that time, the worms have matured, and are sealed in their bags, well protected from any sprays which may be used.

A University of Illinois agronomist urges farmers to run germination tests on all their seed oats before planting this spring.

"Hard" alfalfa and clover seeds are perfectly healthy seeds, but they soak up water more slowly than do normal seeds and therefore will not germinate as soon in the field. If frost or drought occurs after the seedlings emerge, the slow germination of hard seeds may actually be beneficial.

Boob of the Month

LUCKY LUKE has made it again.

He's still alive after another year of good breaks.

Lucky started 1958 with his customary good driving resolutions, but at the end his survival was only a matter of luck.

This year it will be different—absolutely no speeding, no chance taking on hills and curves, no weaving in and out and courtesy to other drivers the whole 12 months.

Good luck, Luke, which you won't need if you stick with those resolutions.—Cook County Highway Department.

Erect Indian Portable Home at Little Red Schoolhouse Center

BY ROBERT MANN
Conservation Editor
Forest Preserve

At the Little Red Schoolhouse nature center we erected a "waginogan" of the type used by the Ojibway, Potawatomi and other Indians who lived in the forests around the Great Lakes. It is oblong, with a dome-shaped roof, and its framework of light poles is covered with slabs of elm bark. This proved a surprise to many people who had had the impression that all Indians lived in teepees or wigwams—portable cone-shaped "tents" covered with skins.

Tipi is a Sioux word, meaning "to dwell in," for the lodge used by that nation (the Dakota) and most Indians of the Great Plains because they subsisted almost entirely on the vast herds of buffalo which they followed from place to place. The Ojibway, who feared the warlike Sioux, called it "bwahn wig' wahm" (enemy dwelling).

Before Coronado explored the Southwest there were no houses in this country and the plains Indians had permanent homes built with earth and sod. For a temporary lodge while hunting they used a small tipi which, when bundled up, could be dragged as a travois by a dog, their only domestic animal. When horses were available, most of them—excepting the Pawnee, Mandan and Hidatsa tribes abandoned the earthen lodges and roamed the prairies with much larger tipis as their year-round homes. Some of those were 20 feet tall.

The erection of a tipi began with a tripod of 3 poles or, in some tribes, a quadripod of 4 poles lashed together at the top. Then other poles were added so that all were equally spaced and two or more feet apart at the bottom. The entrance faced east so that the lodge would get only the morning sun. There being little or no timber on the plains, the Indians would go hundreds of miles to get good straight poles, especially young lodgepole pines, and those were transported from one camp to the next.

The cover was made from the hides of young cow bisons

—preferably those killed in spring when their skins were believed to be thinnest. Seventeen or more hides—only 7 in the old "dog days"—were cut to a pattern and sewn together with sinews by the women, supervised by a wise old squaw. The smoke flaps at the top, manipulated by poles to control the draft of the fire, were sewn on by a woman noted for her cheerful good nature—never a shrew. With a cover previously prepared, an experienced group of squaws could erect a tipi in a matter of minutes.

There was an inner liner or "dew" cloth, decorated with designs and pictographs, that provided an insulated air space and caught what rain fell thru the smoke hole. The outside cover, usually replaced each spring, was frequently decorated from top to bottom. As it became translucent so that, in fair weather, the inside was illuminated; and early white travellers who came upon a village at night were impressed by the many luminous cones in the darkness of prairie river valleys.

The old Sioux tipi were cut so that they had a longer slope in front than in the back. Those of the Crow Indians were high narrow cones. Others had a squat appearance. The cut of the smoke flaps, the length of poles extending above the apex, and the style of designs painted on the cover, varied from tribe to tribe. The tipi, or teepee, is an ideal portable home, cool in summer and warm in winter. On a hot day the bottom of the cover can be raised to let a breeze blow thru the shaded interior. In winter the heat from a small central fire is

Army Rewards Ray Bergmann for Services

Most people in the Country Club Hills know Ray A. Berg-

Ray A. Bergmann
mann, 4740 W. 179th Pl., as a homeowner, school board member, Boy Scout troop committeeman and vice president of the civic association. Fewer know that he is Chief Warrant Officer Bergmann in the United States Army.

For military services he is presently concluding in Chicago—he's going to Germany—Bergmann last Thursday was presented an Army Certificate of Achievement. The award was for "distinguished performance of duty" at the Military Subsistence Supply Agency.

The agency directs nationwide procurement of food supplies for the Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps as well as the Army. Bergmann has been its personnel and supply officer since August 1956. He is now being reassigned to foreign service in Germany.

Bergmann's record in both civic and military affairs was commended by Brig. Gen. Thomas B. Evans, deputy executive director of the military food center, at the award ceremonies.

Ray, a Chicagoan, and graduate of nearby Glenbard high school, enlisted in 1936 and has served in the Army since. His long career includes overseas assignments in the Pacific and Caribbean.

The Bergmanns, Ray, Betty, and children Ray Jr. and Leilani, will depart for his new station in Kirchgoens, Germany, early in May. They have leased their home here with the expectation of returning for permanent residence after conclusion of the current overseas assignment.

Improper passing is a major cause of traffic accidents, says the Motor Club. Remember, it is illegal to pass on hills, curves, in the face of oncoming traffic, and whenever a special no passing zone is designated by a sign or by a yellow unbroken line to the right of the centerline. If there is any doubt as to whether you can pass safely — don't pass.

Bad weather usually means slippery driving conditions and reduced visibility, says the Motor Club. This makes the situation doubly dangerous for pedestrians who don't watch where they are walking. Pedestrians should remember this bad weather fact: It's easier for you to see an approaching car than it is for the driver of that car to see you.

Tinley Hospital Will Publish House Organ

The Tinley Park State hospital employees now have their own monthly house organ, entitled "Tinley Trend." Material for the monthly publication is gathered and printed by a group of employees interested in spearheading more interest in group activities.

John L. Cutler, M. D., hospital superintendent, has heartily endorsed the publication and complimented the employees on their initiative, ingenuity and ambition in organizing the Tinley Trend.

An employees club is in the process of being formed in conjunction with the monthly publication. There are three main interlocking purposes the planning committee has for forming the new club: communications, activities and finance.

The tremendous physical operation of the hospital is important to every employee and should be completely understood. The club hopes to bridge the gaps in these matters and others such as working for a hospital commissary for employees and patients. A calendar of social activities, a news sheet and a flower fund. The planning committee is in the process of working out a schedule of monthly dues for employees.

The club is off to a flying start with a buffet dinner-dance planned for April 1 at Saenger ballroom, Tinley Park. Buffet will be served at 8:30 p.m. and again at midnight with dancing continuously from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Tickets covering dinner, dancing and refreshments are available to all hospital employees from any member of the planning committee in charge of arrangements. The members are Kathie Currie, Robert Robinson, Don Waller, Lee Ahlfeld, Nick Duvario, Earl Lomelino, John Mahy, Louise Horton, Mary Tomas, Mary Leah McNamara, Gordon Tieberg, Edward Appelt, Susumu Higa and Wanda Montgomery.

WHEN LAMBS ARRIVE SPRING IS NOT FAR BEHIND — This young critter who finds the camera fascinating and its mother who is not fascinated at all but is, definitely suspicious, are a part of a flock raised by Walter Kopp on the Ray Powers farm west of Mokena on Francis road. There must be quite a little ham in both mother and offspring for they remained posed until after the shutter clicked. The curiosity took charge of the lamb and it came over to inspect the camera. When the photographer stretched out a hand toward the lamb the mother came over too, stiff legged and bleated something, probably an admonition to the youngster to never have anything to do with strangers, especially those stretching out a hand because one never knows what may be in it. Gas Co. Drivers Striving for Safety Records

More than 2,000 Northern Illinois Gas Company employees are engaged in a serious battle these days. Unlike most battles, this one's principal objective is to eliminate casualties.

It's all part of the gas company's year-long Defensive Driving Contest. Five area teams, captained by the division managers, are battling for the defensive driving trophy. This trophy is awarded to the team with the least number of vehicle accidents per 10,000 miles of travel (accident frequency rate) during each month.

At the end of the year the team with the lowest accident frequency rate will obtain permanent possession of the trophy.

The utility's western area won the trophy for January, and the eastern area earned it for February.
